

THE MIRACLE THAT IS ISRAEL – PART III

“For the children of Israel shall abide many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or sacred pillar, without ephod or teraphim.” (Hosea 3:4)

Throughout the 20th century the stage was being set for the re-emergence of Israel as a nation. The Zionist movement had encouraged and made possible the emigration of thousands of Jews from around the world. Then World War II threatened to end the enterprise. It is the clear teaching of the prophetic Scriptures that Israel would be back in the Land at the return of Jesus the Messiah. Knowing his time was short, Satan was determined to derail God’s plans by preventing the rebirth of the Jewish Nation. To that end he enlisted one Adolph Hitler. Hitler was more than just an egomaniacal dictator. He was a man chosen by and steeped in the occult. In 1919 he became associated with the Thule Society, a sun worshipping pagan society dedicated to the superiority of the Aryan (German) race. They and Hitler saw Jews, with their dark complexions, as being the apotheosis of evil.<sup>1</sup> According to Trevor Ravenscroft, author of The Spear of Destiny, “The inner core within the Thule Society were all Satanists who practiced Black Magic.”<sup>2</sup> One Dietrich Eckardt took Hitler under his wing, initiating him into Thule lore and practice, which included “a monstrous sadistic magic ritual” steeped in sexual sado-masochism. It was thoroughly and overtly Satanic in nature. Eckardt believed that Hitler had been possessed by the spirit of the Antichrist. Hitler believed that he had been “born anew”, with a super power necessary to fulfill his “mandate”.<sup>3</sup> Hitler did follow that Satanic mandate in trying to wipe the Jewish race from the face of the earth. One third of all the Jews in the world, about 6 million in all, perished in the Holocaust. But this horrible massacre only served to turn world opinion in favor of the establishment of a Jewish homeland.

After the end of World War II, the UN resolved to partition Palestine into Arab and Jewish States. But the Arab world would have no part of it. As the British Mandate over Palestine approached its end, the Arab states threatened to completely destroy the emerging Jewish Nation. The Arab armies were armed with modern tanks, planes, and heavy artillery from Britain and France. They were well supplied with weapons and ammunition. The Israeli forces opposing them had no planes or artillery with which to oppose them and only about 10,000 rifles.<sup>4</sup>

Despite the odds and knowing the consequences of their actions, the Israelis went ahead with their declaration. Immediately two things happened. First the United States and the USSR both recognized the new State. Secondly, the next day, five Arab nations invaded the new country. The troops of Iraq, Syria, Egypt, Transjordan and Lebanon invaded from all points of the compass. God’s Word had spoken to this, thousands of years before. “Before she goes into labor, she gives birth; before the pains come upon her, she delivers a son. Who has ever heard of such a thing? Who has ever seen such things? Can a country be born in a day or a nation be brought forth in a moment? Yet no sooner is Zion in labor than she gives birth to her children.” (Isaiah 66:7-8) Israel had indeed been born in one day. No sooner did she declare her nationhood than she was accepted by the international community. The labor of war followed the birth of the nation. It seemed too that the newly formed Israeli Defense Force (IDF) was possessed of almost supernatural strength. The population of the invading nations was over 20 million at the time; the Jews boasted less than 1 million. Yet over the course of the little less than 8 months of the war, the Israeli forces put the invaders to flight, claiming 50% more territory than they had originally claimed. The victory had come against tremendous odds. Leviticus 26:3, 7-8 reads, “If you walk in My statutes and keep My commandments, and perform them... You will chase your enemies, and they shall fall by the sword before you. Five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight”. Though they had returned to the Land primarily in religious unbelief, God seemed to be granting them the benefits of His promise found there.

Perhaps Ezekiel 20:42-44 gives us the best clue to understanding God’s heart in the matter. “Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you into the land of Israel, into the country for which I raised My hand in an oath to give to your fathers. And there you shall remember your ways and all your doings with which you were defiled; and you shall loathe yourselves in your own sight because of all the evils that you have committed. Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when I have dealt with you for My name’s sake, not according to your wicked ways nor according to your corrupt doings, O house of Israel,” says the Lord GOD.” There are two key things to note here. According to this passage, Israel would remember God once they had been brought back to the Land. And God said He would accomplish all of this for

“for My name’s sake”. Further evidence of God’s protective hand was evidenced in the Six-Day War of 1967 and the 1973 Yom Kippur War, when Israel again triumphed over markedly superior Arab forces.<sup>5</sup> It was during the 1967 War that Israel once again gained control of Jerusalem signaling the first phase of the fulfillment of one of Jesus’ own prophecy found in Luke 21:24. “And Jerusalem will be trampled by Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.”

God has indeed affected a physical restoration of Israel, - with more to come. But there is an even greater spiritual transformation that has been promised for the end times. Jeremiah 24:5-7 says, “Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: ‘Like these good figs, so will I acknowledge those who are carried away captive from Judah, whom I have sent out of this place for their own good, into the land of the Chaldeans. For I will set My eyes on them for good, and I will bring them back to this land; I will build them and not pull them down, and I will plant them and not pluck them up. Then I will give them a heart to know Me, that I am the LORD; and they shall be My people, and I will be their God, for they shall return to Me with their whole heart”.

In Matthew 24:32-35, Jesus spoke of the fig tree in telling us the signs of his coming. “Now learn this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender and puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. So you also, when you see all these things, know that it is near—at the doors! Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all these things take place. Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.” In 1948 the fig tree of Israel was planted. It is now well grown. The generation that saw the planting of Israel has lived much of its time. Yet many prophecy scholars believe that Jesus is referring to that very generation in the passage above. And we have the promise that “this generation will by no means pass away” until all is fulfilled. That time is near!

THE EVOLUTION MYTH – PART VIII

[A series by guest contributor Pastor Lynn Zankl]

Hi Folks, Pastor Lynn here again. Today we are going to take a look at the Origin of Plant Life. In evolutionary theory, plants are said to have arrived relatively late in the history of the earth. The first appearance of plants in the fossil record are said to be about 475 million years old. Most evolutionists will generally agree on the belief that plants evolved from algae that slowly began to colonize on land, and that this could not have happened until after there was an intact ozone layer to protect plants from the atmosphere’s harmful UV rays. Since the land was an alien place to the plant, the plant had to adapt to the land. Several key systems had to be developed by the plant to prevent drying out in the air, to be able to absorb nutrients from the soil, to be able to grow upright without the aid of water, and to reproduce on land.

All these new features require new information that the plant did not possess before, and as we have previously seen, no organism can consistently provide new information through the process of mutation. Mutations generally produce less information in the offspring than the parent contains. While plants do have adaptations that allow them to be successful on land, these features could not have been developed through the process of evolution.

In evolutionary biological thought, adaptations are often acquired by modifying existing structures to accomplish new tasks. In the case of algae turning into plants those structures are mostly absent. Few algae have differentiated tissues that can be adapted to a new use.

The first plants to evolve were the small mosses and liverworts (bryophytes), but they proved to have no evolutionary connection with the vascular plants we have today. The three types of bryophytes are found in an unexpected sequence in the fossil record, proving that they “evolved” separately, one possible ancestor may be an algae known as a “chlorophyte”.

The vascular plants of today are supposed to have evolved separately from other algae. The ferns, club mosses, and horsetails are the suggested common ancestors. Giant ferns and club mosses were said to be in great forests during an era called “Carboniferous”, these plant forests eventually died off resulting in the coal and oil reserves we have today.

The next step in evolutionary thought is the development of seed plants. The first to evolve were the gymnosperms, they are cone bearing plants like conifers, ginkgo, and cycads, these plants were said to have an adaptive advantage and dominated the forests in the late Paleozoic era.

The evolution of flowers and seed protected in fruit led to the next branch, the angiosperms. In order for the angiosperm to evolve, great information gaining changes had to occur, not only in the plant world but also in the insect world. Many intricate and exclusive symbiotic relationships had to develop between fungi, bacteria, and insects, and if that relationship is disturbed the plant either does not survive or is less able to compete.

As an example of this symbiotic relationship, a certain bee has to have a certain shape to pollinate a particular flower, if that bee dies off so does the flower. Another difficulty for evolutionists is the presence of fossil plants that have not changed in the supposed hundreds of millions of years. Take for instance Ginkgo biloba, it has been recognized in the fossil record for supposedly 200 million years, another fossil still alive is the Wollemi pine, according to evolutionists a mere 90 million years old. What's a good evolutionist to do? How can he predict the amount of time it took for evolution to occur, when some things have changed and others have not?

Despite the evolutionary story we have presented to you today, concerning the evolution of algae to plants, the appearances of new information, the symbiotic relationships required, and the sequence of fossils, point to the actions of a Creator, rather than the millions of years of mutations required by evolution. There can be no reconciliation between the two models; it's either one or the other. Personally I choose to believe in a Creator rather than on time and chance. Until the next time.<sup>6</sup>

THE PLAN – PART XV – AN UPDATE

We return to the scene of our last really major series, THE PLAN – to update the progress being made toward the fulfillment of the New World Order plans for a One World Government.

Three items really stick out when looking at the progress being made in the last month or so, - to unite the world. In the 14-part series, we laid out the evidence that an oligarchy of international financiers headed by such families as the Rothschilds and the Rockefellers are behind the machinations of such groups as the CFR and the Bilderbergers in the drive for worldwide governance. It is interesting then that Senator John McCain, the Republican presidential candidate in waiting has been accused of taking improper campaign contributions from the British house of the Rothschild banking family.<sup>7</sup> That means that all three of the remaining candidates have strong, demonstrable ties to New World Order folks.

Take Senator Obama for instance. He has mouthed almost verbatim the one-world-seeking intellectual sounding drivel of former Carter administration National Security Advisor and Bildeberger, Zbigniew Brzezinski in his calls for such things as a severe reduction in the American lifestyle. The London Economist even said as much, linking the two in an article last year entitled: A New Brain for Barack Obama.<sup>8</sup> Here's Obama on the Oregon campaign stump. "we can't drive our SUVs and eat as much as we want and keep our homes at 72 degrees at all times and then just expect that other countries are going to say OK." When the rising Asian colossi of India and China do the same; - when their "carbon footprint gets as big as ours, we're gone". Commentator Webster Tarpley characterizes this rhetoric as "a sloganized version of a key passage of from Zbigniew Brzezinski's" book Second Chance. Brzezinski goes on to condemn America's "exploitation of natural resources, excessive energy consumption, indifference to global ecology, [and]...indulgent self-gratification at home [that] conveys indifference to the persisting deprivations of much of the world".<sup>9</sup> What's called for then is a new economic order, ushered in by things like a global warming tax, a third world solidarity tax, perhaps the Law of the Sea Treaty, - all replete with the surrender of the taxing authority by the American government to the greater wisdom of the UN.

As for Hillary Clinton: She can trace her ties to the world's movers and shakers through her husband, the former President. Bill Clinton managed to claim membership in the CFR, the Trilateral Commission and the Bildebergers. It is reported that he was "anointed" for the presidency at a 1991 Bildeberger meeting. (In fact, since 1952, - just about all of the nominees of America's two major parties have been members of the Council on Foreign Relations.)<sup>10</sup> And the philosophy on which all three candidates unite is that of global warming. They've all bought in to this canard of the One Worlders and political Left with its calls for varying degree of surrender for US sovereignty. It should come as a shock then that 31,000, (including over 9,000 PhDs) have publicly rejected Al Gore's science, by signing a petition rejecting humans role in any climate change that may or may not be occurring. "There is no convincing evidence that human release of carbon dioxide, methane, or other greenhouse gases is causing...disruption of the Earth's climate".<sup>11</sup> One scientist, Lawrence Solomon, points out that while the North Pole ice cap may be shrinking, the South Pole is getting colder and despite the UN's refusal to consider the evidence, many believe the sun may be the primary and ultimate source of any climate change.<sup>12</sup> That type of open debate however, just wouldn't fit, as it delay the implementation of the NWO agenda.

More troubling than any of this are the plans already laid by the government, to effectively seize dictatorial powers the next time we are faced by a "national emergency". The testimony of James Comey, John Ashcroft's 2nd in command at the Justice Department, is most disturbing. Comey described a situation where national emergency plans were put in place to take over the country, effectively suspending the Constitution and imposing even nation-wide martial law. Anyone unfriendly to the government could be designated an enemy of the state and incarcerated. (These plans, apparently are not new. In 1968, the Army War College drew up plans to hold possibly millions involved in the riots of that volatile year.) The Department of Homeland Security has been given power in such a time to "seize private and public property, all forms of transport, and all food supplies". Later executive orders allow the Executive branch to take effective control, - for a duration of their own choosing, - of all civil government down to the state and local levels. The Armed Forces will be allowed to operate against civilians and an agreement with Canada means troops from that country to could be used also. In 2006, Kellog, Brown and Root were given $385 million to build "temporary detention and processing capabilities".<sup>13</sup> [Yes, that great American institution, the Concentration Camp!] So the infrastructure is in place. The succession is secured. It awaits but a crisis.

PROGRESS REPORT: ISRAEL

Here's the backdrop: Israel and Syria are engaged in negotiations to formalize a peace that would see Damascus get back a large portion of the Golan Heights in exchange for a promise to be nice. It seems part of an attempt at an overall peace arrangement with the Arabs to go along with the creation of a Palestinian State. The problem is that Israel wants to see the Syrians disassociate themselves from their Iranian masters, as well as Hamas and Hezbollah. The Syrians at this point are not willing to do that.<sup>14</sup> In fact, the Syrians announced recently that they want to increase their military cooperation with Tehran.<sup>15</sup> Damascus, it seems is willing to talk out of both sides of its mouth. While negotiations go on, they are negotiating with the Russians to buy $5 billion worth of the most advanced Russian missiles, warplanes and other military hardware.<sup>16</sup> [Moscow is also making cooperative military arrangements with Libya, one of the nations mentioned by Ezekiel in the Gog / Magog invasion to come.<sup>17</sup>] Meanwhile, the UN's IAEA has come in to possession of 18 documents captured by CIA operatives in 2006 that reveal hard evidence of an Iranian program to design atomic-missile warheads.<sup>18</sup> These rising tensions feed right into a report by the Asia Times that a former Assistant Secretary of State under President Bush Sr has announced that the current administration is planning to strike the Iranians by no later than August. This would be a limited strike to "punish Iran for its' involvement in Iraq". Of course, such a strike carries many dangers. Tehran could strike back at American forces in theater, using missiles and terror forces. It could embargo the US and its allies. Such an attack could also cause the volatile Middle East to explode against Israel, the US and other Western interests.<sup>19</sup>

OH THAT RELIGION OF PEACE !

Here are some nuggets from the 'Religion of Tolerance and Peace':

- An Algerian woman faces 3-years in prison for converting from Islam to Christianity.<sup>20</sup>
- Iran continues to crackdown on Christian converts harassing, intimidating and arresting dozens involved in the home church movement there. Christian home congregations are said to be doubling every six-months.<sup>21</sup>
- In Pakistan, a Christian doctor is facing a possible death sentence after being accused of mocking Mohammed's facial hair. A mob of 200 attacked the doctors home and offices after he was accused of making the remarks. Now that's reasonable!<sup>22</sup>
- The Al Furqaan Foundation is working to provide and deliver a free Quran to every household in America. They intend to silently drop it off on your doorknob without engaging in debate. All so we can make our 'own judgment',<sup>23</sup> - perhaps join them and get to join in some of the fun we've been describing above!
