ON THE FINANCIAL HORIZON

Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke sees a rosy future just over the horizon. In a recent speech, he talked about an economy “on the verge” of recovery, with growth returning in the “near term”.¹ That’s kind of the official position of the Obama administration too. After all there’s a resurgent stock market, and some recovery in home sales, - at least among bargain foreclosure properties. But there are some nay-sayers out there, - and they too have their reasons to be concerned. Bernanke did warn about the dangers going forward. And to economists those dangers seem insurmountable.

Mike Whalen in the Washington Times, calls the nation “functionally bankrupt”. Our national debt stands at $11.6 trillion. Add in Medicare and Social Security and you get that figure up to $107 trillion. (Yeah, you read that right!) And that doesn’t even include unfunded pensions and benefits. Whalen adds another $11 trillion for that, - and compares us the resulting $118 trillion figure with our $14.3 trillion annual GDP. That gives a debt to income ratio for the US of around 47 to 1. Yikes!!! His analysis goes on. All those unfunded liabilities equal about 2.3 times the total worth of the country.² The economic landscape is littered with casualties. The crazy lending schemes have put nearly 150 banks in critical jeopardy.³ The residential real estate disaster is now being joined by a commercial real estate crisis.⁴ The Fed has tossed in about $1 trillion into the pool to try to jump start the consumer credit markets and it hasn’t been working. In fact borrowing dropped for the fifth straight month in June. And all those Big Government plans have resulted in the Obama administration upping the estimate for the 10-year budget deficit by nearly $2 trillion to $9 trillion for the projected period. We are not even shocked by the ‘TRILLION’ word any longer.^{5 6}

The Fed and the government has responded to the unfolding crisis by feeding dollars into the economy just about as fast as they could be printed. Starting in March, they set on a tear to create $1.25 trillion in mortgages and $300 billion in additional government debt. Forbes Magazine offers that this is probably the last chance that they have to pull back in order to avoid a Zimbabwe-like, or Weimar-like, - hyper-inflation.⁷ All that money has been good for the stock market, but bad for the US dollar. Foreigners have resisted buying the now over-valued currency in favor of putting their money into real, primary resources. As dollars are printed, American goods are becoming effectively cheaper to the rest of the world. As one analyst puts it: They “are trying to inject inflation and slowly grow ourselves out of trillions in debt”. By that way of thinking then; - inflation is our friend.⁸ But those cheapened dollars are a real danger. Billionaire Warren Buffett warns that America could be on its way toward becoming a “banana-republic”. “Unchecked greenback emissions will certainly cause the purchasing power of currency to melt”.⁹ Yet through all of this the government is under some pressure to continue to create money out of the ether just to maintain even the status quo. Tax revenues are set to show the largest annual decline since the Great Depression, - $1.8 trillion or about 18%.¹⁰ Add to that the number of bailouts the FDIC has had to face already and we find that that agency is nearly broke. It will require a ‘special levy’ scheduled to kick in at the end of September.^{11 12}

The world’s response to all of this has been to try to look for a relatively painless way out. China for one, is maneuvering to get out of the “dollar trap”, by settling an increasing portion of its foreign trade balance using its own currency, the renminbi, or “redback”. That could amount to as much as $2 trillion in the next couple of years.¹³ As the US continues to print, - the real value of the dollar will continue to go down, - driving more foreign capital to seek other havens, - which will drive the demand for the dollar down, - (they're already having trouble selling off American debt in the form of T-Bills without help from the Fed), - which will feed the inflation. At a conference I attended early this month, one Wall Street wag promised an inflation like we've never seen, to come within the next five years. In just the last couple of years, the net inflow of foreign funds has dropped from $950 billion to about $200 billion. Analyst Jim Willie sees a "deep US Dollar devaluation" on the way.¹⁴ Another top financial player, Chris Mewbourne sees the moves of China and other upcoming economies leading inevitably to the "long-term demise of the dollar".¹⁵

More Than Rumors ?

It's not that this unfolding state of affairs should come as some surprise. Celente, Robini and others made the call over a year in advance. The folks at LEAP 20/20 predicted that summer of 2009 would be a seas of crisis for the US economy, with Washington actually in danger of defaulting on its debt. Back in October of 2008, they warned of a possible US Bank Holiday occurring in the Summer of 2009. "It would be a pity", said they, if people discover after such an event, that "their US T-Bonds and Dollars are only worth 10 percent of their value because a new Dollar has just been imposed".¹⁶ While that might yet seem a bit far fetched, the US is struggling to stay above water right now through the massive printing of money and various bailouts and stimulus packages.

Bob Chapman of the International Forecaster wrote in early August about the possibility of a bank holiday on the horizon.¹⁷ Harry Schultz, another financial prognosticator who called the current "financial tsunami" far ahead of time, believes that an "FDR-style bank holiday" is on its way. This would allow the powers to; - sort out the banking mess, nationalize key industries, - and devalue the dollar.¹⁸ Unconfirmed details about what such a bank holiday might look like reveal that it may limit withdrawals to around $2,000 per month and close or even seize the contents of all safety deposit boxes. Steve Quayle's Q-Files offer – again unconfirmed reports – that the window for such a bank holiday would be open any time between the end of August on through October. One leaked report gave September 11th as the target date. Again: These are unconfirmed reports! The Q-Files article went on to draw a possible connection to a Swine Flu outbreak to the necessity for bank closures, enforced vaccinations and the possibility of imposition of states of emergency and martial law.¹⁹

SWINE FLU & THE DEPOPULATION AGENDA – PART V

"The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders,¹⁰ and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this reason God will send them strong delusion, that they should believe the lie". (2Thessalonians 2:9-11)

There seems a passion about this whole movement to vaccinate hundreds of millions across the globe that bespeaks of something deeper and darker. Delusion, - and even self-delusion is the order of the day. Man is on a quest for his own glorification. Mankind has raised itself up as the 'final authority', and the arbiter of all truth. This is to be the (passing) triumph of the antichrist spirit. This is the tie to the very first successful temptation of Satan, "...and ye shall be as gods". (Genesis 3:5) (KJV)

A RELIGION OF DEATH

"There is a single theme behind all our work—we must reduce population levels... Population is a political problem. Once population is out of control, it requires authoritarian government, even fascism, to reduce it....Our program in El Salvador didn't work. The infrastructure was not there to support it. There were just too g--d----d many people.... To really reduce population, quickly, you have to pull all the males into the fighting and you have to kill significant numbers of fertile age females....The quickest way to reduce population is through famine, like in Africa, or through disease like the Black Death” (Thomas Ferguson, State Department Office of Population Affairs)

“No one will enter the New World Order unless he or she will make a pledge to worship Lucifer. No one will enter the New Age unless he will take a Luciferian Initiation.” (David Spangler, Director of Planetary Initiative, United Nations)²⁰

Researcher and medical doctor Dr Stanley Monteith firmly believes that the global program for population reduction is part of a “master plan”.²¹ For those that doubt it, the ultimate insider, - Bildeberg and Illuminati big whig David Rockefeller confirms that analysis for us. He tells us: “We are on the verge of a global transformation. All we need is the right major crisis and the nations will accept the New World Order”.²² The Club of Rome, an organization dedicated to a one world government let the cat out of the bag that much of the globalist agenda is driven by a series of contrived crises. “In searching for a new enemy to unite us, we came up with the idea that pollution, the threat of global warming, water shortages, famine and the like would fit the bill.... But in designating them as the enemy, we fall into the trap of mistaking symptoms for causes. All these dangers are caused by human intervention and it is only through changed attitudes and behavior that they can be overcome. The real enemy, then, is humanity itself.”²³ The fact is that the culture has been being prepared for a very long time, - dating back to the early days of last century at least; - to accept the notion of population reduction. It came in the form of a pseudo-science called eugenics. And this canard fed by applying the tenets of Darwinism to the social sphere, - (survival of the fittest), - united some of the most ‘enlightened’ minds of the British and American intelligentsia, the masterminds of Hitler’s Third Reich and the Holocaust with Planned Parenthood founder Margaret Sanger and the abortion movement. Eugenics attempts to control and limit human reproduction to “improve or impair the racial quality of future generations”. At its start it had quite an impressive intellectual pedigree. At its peak Woodrow Wilson, Winston Churchill, George Bernhard Shaw, HG Wells, joined Sanger and Hitler and their ilk in supporting this abomination. Even President Theodore Roosevelt once said, “Society has no business to permit degenerates to reproduce their kind”.^{24 25}

By 1932 the movement in England was calling for the sterilization or even elimination of anyone who was a hereditary ‘public burden’. In the US it resulted in the infamous Tuskegee Study, in which 400 syphilitic black men were recruited for ‘treatment’ and then treatment was withheld to ‘study’ their cases while the syphilis destroyed their bodies. Now the Rockefeller Foundation got behind the eugenics movement and its goals. Through Swiss Psychiatrist Ernst Rudin they supported the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Anthropology, Eugenics and Human Heredity. In the early thirties Rudin took a position in Nazi Germany under Heinrich Himmler, where he helped draw up a sterilization law based on “American Model” legislation. The Nazis began using films to ‘sell’ euthanasia to the German public. (They were not quite ready to receive that yet.) The Rockefellers continued their involvement with Germany well into the war using the vehicles of complicated cartel arrangements with the Warburg family and the German industrial giant IG Farben. It was Farben that built the Auschwitz concentration camp and produced the poison gas Zyklon-B. It is alleged that there was Rockefeller money that helped finance the SS presence at Auschwitz. Rockefeller dollars continued to support eugenics after the end of World War II, as the movement got a facelift with new organizational names, becoming the Society for the Study of Social Biology. There was Rockefeller Foundation support again for the establishment of International Planned Parenthood.^{26 27}

Meanwhile back home, Margaret Sanger, the founder of Planned Parenthood, - (an organization generously supported by our tax dollars), - and chief proponent of abortion was a supporter of the Nazi plan for the ‘genetic engineering of the German population’. She openly called for the “extermination of ‘human weeds’...the segregation of morons, misfits and the maladjusted’ and...the sterilization of ‘genetically inferior races’”. As late as 1939, she was promoting something called the “Negro Project”, wherein she hoped to eliminate members of that ‘inferior race’. She even tried to enlist the Black Clergy to support her movement so as to make it more palatable to the people she was targeting. Monteith writes how over time she became “increasingly obsessed with her occultic beliefs”. Population control became an essential part of her religion. “I look forward to seeing humanity free someday of the tyranny of Christianity no less than Capitalism.” She eventually became both a Communist and a Theosophist. Theosophy is a New Age religion incorporating much of the vast body of occult doctrine and is antithetical to Biblical Christianity. Adolph Hitler based much of his racial policy on the work of Sanger and her cohorts in the eugenics movement. They were natural allies, as Hitler too had his roots in Theosophy. He even introduced pagan practices and doctrines into the official German church during his reign. Stanley Monteith points out the Theosophy is “based upon the repudiation of God and the worship of Lucifer” himself.^{28 29}

The notion of radical population reduction had definitely become part of a religious creed. New Ager Matthew Fox, who is looking for the coming of a “Cosmic Christ” asks the question whether “...the human species should be allowed to continue on this planet?”. And Robert Muller, former Assistant Secretary General of the UN and supporter of the United Religious Initiative publicly celebrates the fact that the UN has prevented 2.2 billion births.³⁰ It is just that unification of the political with the religious and economic that drives this movement. The UN and the World Health Organization have been integral parts of that drive as have globalist organizations like our friends at the Club of Rome. In one interesting tie, Lucis Trust, - which started as the Lucifer Publishing Company, - an arm of the House of Theosophy, - has an official presence at the UN. As for the Club of Rome, they are clear that they support “a new world economic order and a global resources allocation system”. In 1980, one scientist member of the ‘Club’ called for the US to “cut its population by two-thirds within the next 50 years”. Another report called Global Future, advocated a program of contraception, abortion and sterilization. Then in 1982, another presidential report; - Global 2000: Blueprint for Genocide was published. It stated that the policies it advocated “are correctly understood as political statements of intent- the intent on the part of such policy centers as the Council on Foreign Relations, the Trilateral Commission, and the International Monetary Fund, to pursue policies that will result not only in the death of the 120 million cited in the reports, but in the death of upwards of two billion people by the year 2000”.³¹ Next time we will look at how these recommendations may have already been put into action.

QUICK TAKES

- ARE WE NOT GODS ? – Scientists are bragging that they will be able to create “artificial life”, - in a lab, - within months. They’ll start with a simple bacterium. The boast follows the success of a “gene swap” between species of bacteria. The next step is introducing a synthetic genome into a life form. *Now let’s see them try to create something using nothing...you know...like God did!*³²
- WHO THOUGHT THIS WAS A GOOD IDEA ? – So Scotland releases the Lockerbie bomber, Abdel Baset Al Megrahi, - on humanitarian reasons. Al Megrahi is purported to be dying from cancer. He was responsible for the deaths of 270 people back in 1988. Western leaders, including President Obama asked the Libyans to be discreet about the release. But it seems the Religion of Peace was in a mood to gloat. Hundreds of “flag-waving well-wishers’ met the mass murderer at the airport. Now the Libyans are claiming that he was released in return for favorable oil and gas contracts between Libya and Britain. *This is not very pretty at all!*³³
- WHY NOT THROW OUT THE BIBLE ? - The leadership of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America voted to ignore Biblical injunctions and Christ’s affirmation of the entire law and instead install sexually active gay clergy to serve in the church. The measure passed with 68% support. *Brilliant! Brilliant!*³⁴
