AN INTERESTING SLIP OF THE TONGUE

Sometimes people say things to the 'wrong' folks, - you know, - like by accident. Take for instance the slip of the tongue by a top Russian government advisor by the name of Mikhail Slobodovsici. He's a member of the Trilateral Commission. That's a group that was born out of another grouping of the Global Elite called the Bilderbergers. They have very similar goals in mind. Here's how Eric Barger put it in The Christian World Report. "The goal of the Trilateral Commission is to align the free world with the advanced communist states to organize a world government."¹ Simple like that!

Now see, the little problem that Slobodovsici had was he didn't really recognize who he was talking to. So he kind-of let the cat out of the bag. Though it's not anything that we didn't know before. He was in Ireland, at the Trilateralist meetings - and he thought he was talking to one of his own - a fellow Trilateral-guy. But instead he was talking to Alan Keenan, a member of the Irish press - specifically We Are Change Ireland. So...Mikhail started to lay out the gist of the whole dirty plan for Keenan. Here are the words of Prison Planet's Paul Joseph Watson. "Trilateralists and their Bilderberg counterparts are intent on exploiting the economic crisis to finalize plans for a world government, but that this agenda is being severely hampered by so-called "nationalists" who are becoming increasingly aware of the impact that global government will have on their freedom and standards of living." Then Slobodovsici spelled it out. "We are deciding the future of the world. We need a government." But Iran stands in the way. "We need to get rid of them." Suddenly he realized that he was talking to a reporter and ended the conversation. Now according to researcher James Tucker, the Trilateral Commission was hoping to achieve more from the little economic mess they arranged beginning back in 2008. The aim of the whole adventure is to quickly advance the cause of Global Government through financial centralization. Tucker asserts that the TC's want the global economic crisis and a coming war with Iran to drive the price of gasoline in the US up to $7 dollars a gallon, helping to create the conditions that will drive the world's population to accept the New Order.^{2 3} So is this just the bragging of someone trying to feel self-important, - or - the ramblings of a conspiracy nut-job?

They can't be dismissed so easily when we consider that we have other independent evidence of similar plans - some dating back decades. In 1981 Peter Lemesurier wrote in The Armageddon Script, of using a regime of engineered chaos to create an engineered, humanly produced Messiah figure that would serve as the centerpiece of a One World Government. That chaos was to come in the form of terror attacks, an Arab/ Israeli war, a nuclear crisis in Korea, stock market crash and more. That was in 1981.⁴ Then earlier this year - in March - we began a series called Conspiracies & Realities, we covered the revelations of a Brit with both a military and high-level financial background he talked about the plans of the PTB - specifically some senior Masons - for the launching of a Third World War "on track to be initiated in the next 18-24 months." According to the Brit we called "W", - (speaking in January of 2010) - "It is planned to begin with a strike by Israel on Iran. Either Iran or China will be provoked into a nuclear response." All of this engineered chaos is to bring de-facto martial law in America and the West. The final goal of all of this is to drastically reduce the world's population and form a Global Government under the control of the Elite.^{5 6 7} *There is more to the plan - and it can be accessed in our archived section beginning with Issue # 282. KOREA: IT WOULD BE FUNNY IF....

So here's the deal. A South Korean ship mysteriously sinks back in March, taking the lives of 46 sailors. An investigation leaves little doubt as to the cause and culprit. It's North Korea. An independent, international panel conducted the investigation. They were able to identify the exact type of explosive used; - a torpedo type used by the North Korean Navy.⁸ By last weekend, Secretary of State Clinton was busy trying to organize an international response to the North's provocation. "I think it's important to send a clear message to North Korea that provocative actions have consequences," said she.⁹ President Lee Myung-bak of South Korea warned of "stern action" to follow. But Pyongyang (North Korea) was having none of it. They warned that should "enemies" retaliate in any way - whether by strikes or sanctions - "we will answer this with all out war."¹⁰ Seemingly in disregard of the Pyongyang's statement, South Korea began to rebroadcast propaganda into the North. The practice had been halted 6 years ago. In more concrete action, Seoul also stopped all trade with the Communist dictatorship. North Korea responded by ordering its troops to prepare for war.¹¹ The US has also stepped up its level of preparedness and is, in the word of an AP headline; “Ready to Fight North Korea.”¹² Now the North has a massive military vis-à-vis the South and a nuclear capability. They have thousands of rockets and artillery in place ready to go at any time. Together that would raise serious havoc with both South Korean and US Forces on the Peninsula. Past war-gaming has produced a scenario where the US & South Korea have to respond with tactical nukes in the first days of any projected conflict. Which brings us to the End Times significance. As we’ve noted on occasions in the past, a conflict in Korea is part of the acknowledged Illuminati strategy for creating the chaos that will lead to the rise of a New Age Messiah. Scripture calls this figure: Antichrist. So here’s the quote from Lemesurier’s The Armageddon Script. “A hair-raising nuclear confrontation in Korea may, towards the end of the period, threaten man’s very survival.”¹³

A BIT OF A BUILD UP

Last week the US released a bunch of ‘Bunker-Buster’ bombs to Israel. These weapons could be used to strike at targets in Lebanon, Syria or say...Iran, - as in, ‘nuclear facilities.’ Interesting that their delivery had been held up until now, - in fact just detoured to the American base at Diego Garcia, while they were on the way to Israel. Now the US has gone one farther. Rather quietly, except to those that follow these things, the US is massively building up its forces in the Persian Gulf region opposite Iran. By August at the latest, America is scheduled to have 4 – and possibly 5 – carriers in place there. [That’s a whole lot!] The forces will be sporting the total array of military attack hardware, including; jets, helicopters, an Electronic Attack Squadron for disrupting radar, missiles and a contingent of Marines trained for operations against Iran.¹⁴ [Listen! But I’m thinking it’s just a coincidence.]

ECONOMICS & REVOLUTION – PART IV

The Left / Right continuum is a fraud. Viewing American politics through the Liberal / Conservative prism will always produce a worldview that is both inaccurate and incomplete. For one thing, politics is no longer about America. This is a globalist world and we are dealing with global forces. Secondly, and more importantly, the lines between left and right are not only blurred, they are often crossed or non-existent. Wall Street financing is often used to promote revolutions. And their eventual success only serves to enrich the PTB. So we begin to unfold the complicated networks that dominate the halls of power, unveiling in the process the inner workings of a cabal so confusing and dark that the TRUTH of it all stretches credulity. You see, it’s all about the Revolution. And the Revolution – is all about the amalgamation of power. Power to the people, baby....but really just a few!

IT’S ALL ABOUT THE REVOLUTION

“And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there arose another generation after them, which knew not the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done And they forsook the LORD, and served Baal and Ashtaroth.” (Judges 2:10, 13) (KJV)

As I watch events develop I become increasingly certain of one thing: We are witnessing the triumph and institutionalization of many of the goals of the 60’s Revolution. What is more, the evidence strongly suggests that this Revolution is being ushered in with the full cooperation and participation of the President of the United States. The current state of affairs sheds light on the remarks of Henry Kissinger, key figure in the Nixon and Ford White Houses and longtime operator for the Global Elites seeking to establish a One World Government. Kissinger had written of the financial collapse of 2008 as providing a “unique opportunity” to establish a world financial order.” Writing in the period leading up to his inauguration, the former Secretary of State said that the President Elect was entering a “period when, really, a new world order can be created. It’s a great opportunity, it isn’t just a crisis.”¹⁵ ¹⁶ In the same period Rahm Emmanuel, Obama’s Chief of Staff put it this way. “You never want a serious crisis to go to waste. What I mean by that is it’s an opportunity to do things that you think you could not do before.”¹⁷ That’s exactly what is happening. Things are being done that have never been done before. This is one crisis that has not gone “to waste.” We’ve seen the advancement of an agenda that has seen Washington assume ever greater control of finance and banking and the auto industry. We’ve seen a health care law that will – in the long term – assert full government control of one-sixth of the domestic economy and effectively socialize medicine, - a goal since the first articulations of Marxist thought. We’ve seen patriots and constitutionalists and fundamentalist Christians demonized, marginalized and mocked. Pending legislation in the areas of immigration and cap-n-trade threaten to overwhelm the country, transform politics and lower the American standard of living. (Just look to candidate Obama’s own admissions detailed in our last installment.) How do we find ourselves in this mess?

What we are witnessing is the outworking of something that has come to be called the Cloward-Piven strategy, named after two 60's radicals, whose aim was the destruction of the entire capitalist system. Here's how researcher David Horowitz describes on his Discover The Networks site. "First proposed in 1966 and named after Columbia University sociologists Richard Andrew Cloward and his wife Frances Fox Piven (today Piven is an honorary chair for the Democratic Socialists of America), the "Cloward-Piven Strategy" seeks to hasten the fall of capitalism by overloading the government bureaucracy with a flood of impossible demands, thus pushing society into crisis and economic collapse."¹⁸ To Cloward & Piven, the welfare system was put in place only to prevent rebellion. So to break the system, CPS called for the employment of "cadres of aggressive organizers" to set up "demonstrations to create a climate of militancy" that would intimidate politicians and governments. Their goal was the redistribution of income, - something that President Obama has openly called for. As more and more poor would be drawn to the cause, their demands would, in Horowitz's words, - "break the budget" cause gridlock, and send the system "crashing down. Fear, turmoil, violence and economic collapse" would follow.¹⁹ Cloward & Piven outlined their strategy thus:

- Organize those eligible for government benefits
- Identify new beneficiaries and / or create new benefits
- Impose enough stress on the system to force its collapse

Their first target was the welfare system – specifically of New York City. They did quite the job with it. Their tactics were adopted by the National Welfare Reform Organization who went to work on the heels of the racial unrest of the middle 60's. Welfare began to expand by 50% a year. New York went from 150,000 welfare cases in 1960 to 1.5 million by 1970. During the early 70's there were two people on the welfare rolls for every one that was working. The city went into bankruptcy in 1975.²⁰ This was but the triumph of the strategy that C&P had earlier enunciated. "[A]ctivists should work to sabotage and destroy the welfare system; the collapse of the welfare state would ignite a political and financial crisis that would rock the nation." Rudy Giuliani realistically described the situation years later. "This wasn't an accident", he said. "This is the result of policies and programs designed to have the maximum number of people get on welfare."²¹ [Now there's a recipe for a healthy society. No! That's right! It's really a prescription for the collapse of a culture.]

The purpose of all this was, of course, income redistribution and the destruction of the capitalist system. By the early 1980's, the voting rights organization ACORN had been birthed to carry on the cause. George Soros provided a good deal of funding for the movement in general. And the whole thing leaned on the strategies designed by the old time radical Saul Alinsky.²² If we want to know Alinsky's motivation, we need go no farther than the dedication page. "Lest we forget at least an over-the-shoulder acknowledgment to the very first radical: from all our legends, mythology, and history... the first radical known to man who rebelled against the establishment and did it so effectively that he at least won his own kingdom — Lucifer." Did that get your attention? It sure got mine. On page 3 he gave the purpose of the book, "to create mass organizations to seize power." A few pages later he was talking about creating "the revolution to end capitalism." Further on we are told such timeless truths as "the end justifies most any means," - do what you must but "clothe it with moral garments," and "Ridicule is man's most potent weapon." This was never about right – it's about power. Here are some thoughts from the prologue that about sum it up. Alinsky preached, "The Revolution force today has two targets, moral as well as material." And he spoke approvingly of a cadre that would "urge violence and cry, 'Burn the system down.'"²³

But Alinsky was not pushing the old fashion Leninist /Stalinist model characterized by sudden, violent takeover and (in practice) with tens of millions of dead. This instead was Neo-Marxism with its bent toward gradualism and infiltration. What has turned out to be more important was the people he influenced. Those people included both our current President and Secretary of State. Here's a quote from the Crossroad website as it quotes Richard Poe in Hillary, Obama and the Cult of Alinsky. "True revolutionaries do not flaunt their radicalism, Alinsky taught. They cut their hair, put on suits and infiltrate the system from within. Alinsky viewed revolution as a slow, patient process. The trick was to penetrate existing institutions such as churches, unions and political parties.... Many leftists view Hillary as a sell-out because she claims to hold moderate views on some issues. However, Hillary is simply following Alinsky's counsel to do and say whatever it takes to gain power. Obama is also an Alinskyite.... Obama spent years teaching workshops on the Alinsky method. In 1985 he began a four-year stint as a community organizer in Chicago, working for an Alinskyite group called the Developing Communities Project.... Camouflage is key to Alinsky-style organizing. While trying to build coalitions of black churches in Chicago, Obama caught flak for not attending church himself. He became an instant churchgoer. (Richard Poe, 11-27-07)²⁴

In fact the future President ended up at the church of Rev Jeremiah Wright, a purveyor of Black Liberation Theology, which has been accurately described by one author as "Marxism in a clerical collar." It was pioneered by a Peruvian Catholic priest named Fr Gustavo Gutierrez, and featured a "combination of Marxism with elements of Christianity." It promoted the use of violent confrontation to promote the goals of class struggle; a defining earmark of the Communist movement. In its Black American form it stokes the fires of resentment and alienation to keep the wound open and the resulting fire burning brightly. As Jeffrey Schmidt analyzed it, “Militancy is important. It’s the sword dangled over the head of society. Either fork over more tax dollars, government services and patronage or else....Disruptions in cities. Riot in the streets.”²⁵

Another vehicle used to advance the radical mindset of Mr Obama was his association with Bill Ayers. He was a founding member of the Students for a Democratic Society or the SDS. The SDS was a radical 60’s organization with an even more radical leadership group called the Weather Underground or Weathermen. Ayers admits to participating in the bombing of New York City Police Headquarters, the Capitol and the Pentagon and is not sorry about it at all. “In a 2001 NY Times interview he said, “I don’t regret setting bombs. I feel we didn’t do enough.”²⁶ Prior to becoming president, Obama served on several boards with the 60’s bomb thrower, including the Chicago Annenberg Challenge, as well as the Woods Fund. These organizations funneled money to Rev Wright’s and Obama’s church, Trinity UCC, as well as ACORN, - the radical voter rights group where Mr Obama served as a community organizer.²⁷ His political career in fact, was launched from Ayers home. The Annenberg Challenge aimed itself at education. Stanley Kurtz writing in the Wall Street Journal tells us that “The group poured more than $100 million into the hands of community organizers and radical education activists.... The CAC’s agenda flowed from Mr. Ayers’s educational philosophy, which called for infusing students and their parents with a radical political commitment, and which downplayed achievement tests in favor of activism....Ayers wrote that teachers should be community organizers dedicated to provoking resistance to American racism and oppression. His preferred alternative? ‘I’m a radical, Leftist, small ‘c’ communist.’”^{28 29}

But just how far did Barak Obama wander down that socialist road? Quite far indeed, it seems. In 1996, while running for the state senate, Obama sought and received the endorsement of the New Party. The New Party was a Marxist construct boasting the active membership of SDS radical Carl Davidson and consisting of a hodgepodge of Socialists, ACORN members, and Communist Party USA folks.³⁰ That however was both a calculated and natural move given his upbringing and the associations of his youth. In his own autobiography, Obama admitted that he sought out the company and influence of the Marxist professors. Both his mother and father were communists. His grandfather led him into associations with the likes of Frank Marshall and he even met the august radical Saul Alinsky. In Dreams of My Father, he tells how his one job in the corporate world led him to feel “like I was behind enemy lines.”³¹ Thus, even in his youth, the mindset of CHANGE; - of the revolution - was taking shape.

INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS

Yeah, it seems every week there are interesting developments on the Israeli front: So much so in fact, that we can’t even cover them all. Here are some of the latest. While Israel is preparing to ease restrictions by opening up a major highway to Palestinian traffic again, the good Palestinian terrorists are threatening to resume the “armed struggle” against Israel. What they want is the division of the land into two states, as called for by UN Resolution 181. That document also specifically calls for Jerusalem (and Bethlehem) to become an international city under UN sanctioned authority. Reports are surfacing in the Arab press that Palestinian Chief Mahmoud Abbas is about to officially inform the US that he is now willing to see a NATO military presence in a future Palestinian State. Its purpose; “protecting the Palestinians from Israel.”^{32 33 34} That at least a part of Jerusalem will come under international control, (the UN, the Quartet, the Vatican – or some combination) – seems to be the latest global scheme for the region. During the Tribulation, the Scriptures indicate that Jerusalem will become the bailiwick of the Antichrist. Part of the solution for the city will be a religious neutrality or syncretism, expressed in the building of a house of worship – likely for all three monotheistic religions. This will be the center of mankind’s religious rebellion against the Creator. “Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition, who opposes and exalts himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped, so that he sits as God in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God.” (2Thessalonians 2:3-4)
